CLOVERPORT, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, JULY 17, 1878.

The New Baptis: Church was occupied

last Sunday night for the first time; Rev.

A. J. Miller, the paster, being detained at rington, pastor of the M. E. Church South, preached in his stead to a large and atten-

style, and presents a gem of an audience

room that will seat three-hundred people comfortably. The acoustic is very fine.

It is an honor to the church and the builder.

On Monday Mr. Samuel Beavin brought to the News office a stool of fifty-nine stalks

of wheat, grown from a single grain this season. While cradling for Mr. McManaway on Mr. Ferd Owen's place Mr. Beavin noticed the extraordinary appearance of the stand and examined and counted the stalks, the heads of which were of average size, excepting one. The grains we believe were not counted, but this is regarded as the most prolific yield ever known in one season from one grain of wheat.

If he wears a good coat,
Lift him up, lift him up;
Though he be but a blast,
Lift him up.
If he has not common sense,
But one boast a few peace,
Lift bim up.

If his face shows a shame,
Lift bim up;
Though Crime is his name,
- Lift him up;
Though diagracs be his sport
Let your daughters him court—
Lift him up.

Pleasures of Memory.

What a percunial fountain is memory! How happy it must make those feel, who can look back on their past lives with clear consciences, realizing that they have men the troubles of earth lite with brave bearts and determined minds. Some persons can look back to years gone by, with a satisfied look on their faces, believing they have done all in their power to make those around them joyfal and happy. How many homes they have made joyful; how many hearts they have made glad, by speaking kind words, or by casting bright smiles. But for some to look back in their past lives, it makes a shudder ever over them; they recall the horrors of their crimes; they, like many others, set out with a bright prospect for the future, but when misfortune befell them, they, instead of clinging to the little hope that was left, dailed further and fur-ther into the folds of sin, until all hopes were gone; and when they think of what might have been, they recall with a shudder their ruined hopes and darksard lives, knowing all might have been bright had they, on starting out so their juniney of life, listened to the advice of dear eace, and never have faster by the crust land of six. dance so gracefully, all of these belong to us, and all of the funny things said and done. Females as Teachers.

He, it seems to me is a dull observer, who is not convinced that they are equally qualmagnificent creation around us and equally antitled to the happiness to be derived from its pursuit; and still more blind is he, who has not barned that it was the intention of the erenter to commit to them a higher and greater portion of responsibility, in the are the natural guardinus of the youngtheir abstraction from the engrossing cares 2rd. When we sinners got up a nice little of life affords them leisure both to acquire and communicate knowledge. From them the young more willingly receive it, because the severity of discipline is relieved with greater tenderness and affection, while their more quick apprehension, enduring pationee, expansive benevolence, higher pur-ity, more delicate taste, and elevated moral feelings qualify them for excellence in all feelings qualify them for excellence in all departments of learning, except perhaps the exact sciences. If this he true, how many a repulsive, bigoted and indolent professor will, in the general improvement of education, he courselled to resign his claim to modest, assidnous and affectionate woman? and how many conceited pretenders who man y yield the rod in our common schools without the knowledge of human nature requisite for livediscred exercise, too nature requisite for its discreet exercise, too incloient to improve and too proud to disdurge their responsible duties, will be driven to senk publishence elsewhere?
